PM welcomes election challenge

By Nanai Taofiga Laveitiga Tuiletufuga

Incumbent MP and Prime Minister Tuilaepa Dr. Sailele Malielegaoi is receptive to the entry of two election candidates to vie for the Lepa Electoral Constituency seat with him when Samoa goes to poll next April.

Why?

“Because it’s a vindication for me,” replied the Prime Minister. “It lays to rest the critic’s hallucinations that I have been flexing my political muscle to prevent election candidates from entering Parliament to represent Lepa.”

“Secondly,” he continued. “And this is paramount to me as Prime Minister, it’s a reinstatement that Samoa’s electoral democracy process is accountable, transparent vibrant and very much alive.”

The survivor of 10 General Elections and one bi-election since he entered Parliament in 1981, Tuilaepa says that he did not attend the Lepa’s Electoral Constituency meeting some months back because he did not to discourage the freedom of choice and opinions by the matais. And he was later informed that Lepa had voted for his return unopposed to continue as their MP.

By: Joshua Lafoa’i

Samoa is the first Pacific Island country to have a centralized emergency operation center headquarters with the dedication of the National Emergency Operation Center (NEOC) at Tu’anaimato last week.

The Center is the final product of a united engagement by the Ministry of Finance (MOF) and the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment, (MNRE) through the Pacific Resilience Project, (PREP).

The Projects’ overall objective is to strengthen early warning, resilient investments and financial project in Samoa.

And PREP’s four components includes;

PACER PLUS headquarters to be built in Samoa

By: Joshua Lafoai

Samoa will home the Pacific Agreement on Closer Economic Relations Plus, (PACER Plus) headquarters.

The rights for the PACER Plus regional headquarters to be located on local soils was awarded to Samoa this month at the completion of the tender process. Tonga, the Solomon Islands, and Vanuatu submitted proposals however after due diligence, Samoa's bid was given the green light.

Construction of the headquarters is scheduled to start December this year.

Meanwhile the regional PACER Plus agreement since negotiations started in 2009 has satisfied the minimum requirement for eight Pacific Forum Countries to endorse the trade pact.

PACER Plus needed eight ratifications from 12 countries in the Pacific in order to be approved. On October 15, 2020, the Cook Islands signed the PACER Plus agreement and became the eighth Pacific island country to ratify it.

And the milestone is applauded by Prime Minister Tuilaepa Dr. Sailele Malielegaoi acknowledging the wisdom and long term vision by the eight signatories made in the best interest of their respective countries.

"This agreement will help local production thrive in the export markets, while at the same encourage affordable imports for the region," the Prime Minister added.

Since 2009, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade (MFAT) have taken the lead on behalf of Government during the negotiation process.

And MFAT's Chief Executive Officer Peseta Noumea Simi in announcing Samoa's successful bid before Cabinet Development Committee CDC elaborated on the PACER Plus spin-offs.

"Some of the benefits of PACER Plus to Samoa include no tariffs on our exports to Australia and New Zealand starting from the first day the agreement is official," Peseta said.

"Within the next 25 years, the agreement will lower the costs of tariffs of imported goods into Samoa as well," she added. One such spin-offs include the commitment by Australia and New Zealand to remove import duties on all originating products from PACER Plus countries, when the agreement enters into force. This would mean that Samoa's exports will enter Australian and New Zealand markets duty free, provided the products originate from Samoa, according to the rule of origins.

"The PACER Plus agreement has been in discussion between Australia and New Zealand and the Pacific since August 2009."

"Overall, the agreement will cover; trade in goods (including rules of origin, customs procedures, sanitary and phytosanitary, technical regulations, standards and conformance), trade in services, investment and development and economic cooperation, transparency, consultation and dispute settlement," said a press statement issued by MFAT.

PACER Plus is the regional trade, development and economic cooperation agreement between the Forum Island Countries, Australia and New Zealand.

It will provide assistance to PACER Plus island countries to strengthen their capacity to benefit from regional and international trade and contribute to achieving economic growth and sustainable development.

Australia and New Zealand have committed to jointly fund the AUD$25.5m Development and Economic Cooperation Work Programme (DECWP) from entry into force of the PACER Plus. The DECWP has six main components linked to the different aspects of the agreement:

- Rules of Origin and tariff commitments

- Customs Procedures
- Sanitary & Phytosanitary measures
- Technical Regulations
- Standards & Conformity
- Trade in Services & Investment

In preparation for entry into force of the agreement and implementation, Government will focus on the key areas including the prioritisation of Samoa's trade related needs, technical capacity building and trainings for stakeholders on priority areas, communications and long term work to include the implementation of obligations including promotion of transparency in trade policy development, export development and trade promotion and strengthening of cooperation through the Arrangement on Labour Mobility.

PM welcomes election challenge

However after the registration of candidates closed with two candidates vying for seat, he was not moved or disappointed but appreciative that the democracy has prevailed.

"It's not the first time that Lepa has endorsed me to run unopposed and it's not the first time that I have had to compete with other candidates and I welcome the challenge," said Tuilaepa.

At the end of the day, the Prime Minister remains confident that his services rendered to Lepa for the last 49 consecutive years as their voice in Parliament will prevail. "I am a stalwart when it comes to services rendered for the benefit of Lepa and the entire country," elaborated Tuilaepa.

Political observers and government critics are forecasting a change in political tides after April based on a visible and vocal line up of candidates opposing Government.

But in the eyes of Samoa's longest serving Prime Minister, it is the season for election camouflage which is a replay of past General Elections to remove the Government at all costs even if it means resorting to empty promises which will require divine intervention to become a reality.

He is confident that the HRPP will perform exceptionally well.

"The critics will always ridicule and downplay the benefits enjoyed by the country today compared to where Samoa was before the HRPP came into power but that's what to be expected in this ruthless game of politics.

"E pito i sili ona leo tele galuega ua tino mai."

Samoa's new NEOC Headquarters; a first in the Pacific

The initial participants for PREP's First 5 year phase includes;

- Tonga
- Marshall Islands
- Vanuatu
- Samoa

In dedicating the new two-storey headquarters, Prime Minister and MNRE Minister Tuilaepa Dr. Sailele Malielegaoi in his address acknowledged that this is a vision which has been under the Government's microscope since the Cyclone Ofa and Val in 1990 and 1991 respectively.

"It is a must that Samoa has a central office that our people will turn to when disaster strikes. Before the NEOC was formed, our people have been going through various directions to this ministry and that ministry, but now, we have a central location where all national emergency services will be centralized to effectively respond at times of natural disasters," he said.

The $6.4million tala building is a state of the art structure equipped with the latest technology to assist the NEOC team response during natural disasters and disease pandemic control.

It is fitted with a state of the art emergency radio network, an emergency operation center, backup generator, independent water supply from 10,000 liter water tanks.

"This infrastructure will boost the job performed by the NEOC to increase the resilience of Samoa and the Pacific region as a whole to natural hazards such as cyclones, coastal/riverine flooding, volcanoes, tsunamis and earthquakes by improving the quality of forecasting and warning services.

The NEOC Headquarters is funded by the World Bank through an International Development Association (IDA) grant.

The design and blueprint for the emergency center was drawn by the Kramer Ausenco (Samoa) Ltd contractors, and was constructed by the Zheng (Samoa) Company Ltd who won the bid for the construction tender.

Fuiavailili Egon Keil confirming a successful Police raid confiscated illegal drugs and cannabis

Alarmed but not discouraged

By: Eirenei Ariu Toleafoa

56 illegal firearms and unregistered weapons not including ammunition are in Police possession as of this month as the 3rd Gun Amnesty Appeal by the Ministry of Police and Prisons continue until December this year.

Launched in October, Commissioner Fuiavailili Egon Keil at a press conference acknowledged the public response and noted that although the illegal weapons appears old and rusty, they can still kill.

As an encouragement, law authorities are also paying a $100 tala food voucher for any person who voluntarily surrenders any illegal firearm or unregistered weapon. The voucher is for groceries and not for alcohol or other necessities.

The Commissioner says that while he is alarmed with the number of illegal weapons surrendered at this stage, Police far from being discouraged to continue with their campaign for a “Safe Samoa” via the Gun Amnesty appeal.

“We are appealing to our people who have dangerous illegal firearms and ammunitions in their possession to hand them over and no questions asked or charges file but instead you will receive a $100 tala food voucher for your honesty,” elaborated the Commissioner

He added that if transport is needed, police will facilitate by up-lifting the illegal firearms, weapons and ammunition, again without any repercussion.

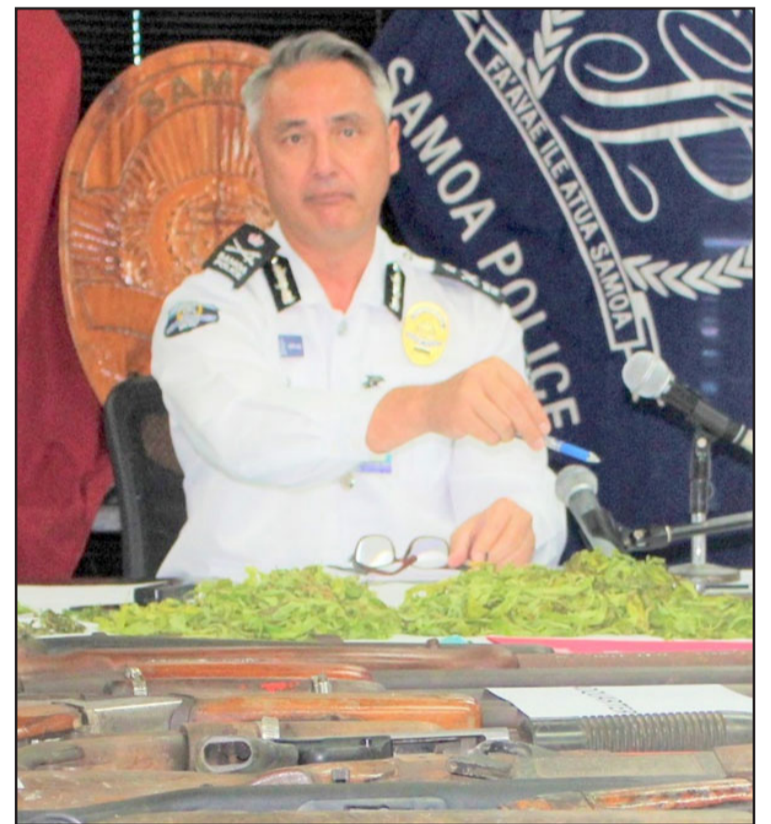

“The illegal firearms will be destroyed eliminating any future danger to our people,” he reassured.

Of the 56 firearms surrendered, six were turned in from Savaii.

The present Gun Amnesty ends of New Year’s Eve.

SAMOA AIRPORT AUTHORITY REDUCTION OF HOURS

PR - 27th OCTOBER 2020; The Samoa Airport Authority wishes to advise that temporary cost cutting measures have been implemented effective 26th October 2020. It has been determined that a 50% reduction to staff working hours (80hrs –40hrs) is the most viable option to ensuring it remains afloat during these unprecedented times and continue to provide support to our staff.

It is no secret that aviation on a global scale has been critically affected by COVID 19 border shut downs, and Faleolo Airport is no exception.

The Authority did not rest in its exhaustive efforts to source all options available to prevent any direct impact on our staff and it is important to note that our Board of Directors and Management did not make this decision lightly.

Since April and the COVID 19 restrictions, the welfare of our staff has been at the forefront of all our financial forecasting and planning.

We have also been up front and transparent with them, throughout this time and have provided ample notice and assistance to aid with the transition.

Unfortunately, we have exhausted all means to retain full staff capacity and this decision, however lamentable, is the preferred option over mass redundancies and permanent lay-offs.

Our optimistic view is that operations will return to normal and when it does, we will welcome the opportunity to return our staff to their designated roles in service to Samoa!

Community support vital to eliminate illegal drugs

By: Eirenei Ariu Toleafoa

Police is again appealing for public support in terms of information sharing to assist law enforcers with their battle against illegal drugs and cannabis.

The appeal was initiated by Police Commissioner Fuiavailili Egon Keil after the successful Police raid which confiscated 90 branches and 475 cigarettes of marijuana, five plastic bags of Methamphetamine (a.k.a. ice) and tested positive by SROS. Each package has a street value of $100 tala. And law enforcers estimate the total street value of the illegal drugs at $5,000. And information from the Faleatiu Village had aided police with their surprised raid, acknowledged Fuiavailili. Fuiavailili Egon Keil acknowledged everyone's support especially the village of Faleatiu for providing accurate information which allowed the Police department to execute the successful raid without casualties or fatalities.

"E momoli le faafetai faapitoa i alii ma faipule o le afoaga o Faleatiu mo le latou fesoasoani.....I would also like to thanks our Media people for keeping Samoa informed", said Fuavailili.

The successful operation, continues the Commissioner re-emphasis the role played by the community to support law enforcers by providing vital information.

"The Samoa's Police mandate for a secure and safe Samoa is a shared responsibility," elaborated the Top Cop. "This is why we need universal support from our government partners, community, villages, churches and families to eliminate all illegal drug operations."

"The Ministry of Police will always try to keep Samoa as safe it can be. But we can't do it on our own."

On the border line, Fuiavailili is also reaching out to the Force border security partners and agencies to enforce maximum security surveillance and monitoring to the letter.

"This is a crucial role which the Samoa's Police cannot do alone," he added.

Since taking up the helm as Commissioner, Fuiavailili is hailed as the most successful top law enforcer to have led and executed repeated drug raids which had result in the confiscation of dangerous and illegal weapons and cash valued at thousands of tala.

Six to eight cyclones looms over Samoa

By: Joshua Lafoa'i

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment through its meteorological division are predicting a probably six to eight cyclones throughout the Pacific region within the next few months.

Naturally for our part of the region, the latter months of the year and continuing to the early months of the year that follows are normally filled with heavy rainfall and rough weather.

The out-going Chief of MNRE Ulu Bismarck Crowley filed a report to the Cabinet Development Committee last week as an update from the Ministry's ongoing works.

"We're expecting a lot of heavy rainfalls throughout the next few months. Although understandably this doesn't do well with most of Samoa's festive season plans, they will play a vital positive part in the cleansing of Samoa's environment," Ulu said.

"Usually heavy rainfall means fresh water pushing through Samoa's streams and small ponds. It's usually this time of the year that we get a sort of natural cleansing for our environment. This clears our mosquito nests and things like that," he said.

Also very good news for farmers.

"The rains will definitely bring forward some much needed rains for the farmers. Some days it has been quite hot and dry for Samoa so this season will bring that much needed water to moisture the grounds our crops workers rely on," added Ulu.

On a much more serious note, the Environment Ministry Chief noted that Samoa as well as the rest of the Pacific will be on the lookout during the next few months for an estimated six to eight cyclones.

For Samoa alone, the risk is minimal according to Ulu.

"We should expect maybe one or even none to come Samoa's way," he said.

Maybe some time sooner we could have a more detailed report as the month's progress.

"The aftermath of Cyclone Evan in 2012. The Pacific is predicted to see at least 6 or up to 8 cyclones this cyclone season."

Vice Chancellor of NUS Prof. Aiono Alec Ekeroma.

"The National University of Samoa hopes to be fully renewable energy reliant within the next 3 to 5 years."

N.U.S tackles electricity bill via solar energy

By: Joshua Lafoa'i

The National University of Samoa (NUS) cost saving energy proposal to meet their electricity needs via solar power has received the green light from the Cabinet Development Committee to proceed.

In tabling the request, Vice Chancellor of NUS Prof. Aiono Alec Ekeroma assured the CDC that solar power is a viable and cost effective option which will tackle the NUS annual electricity bill of $1 million tala every year.

With a budget of $26 million tala from Government, Prof. Aiono notes that saving from solar power can be redirected to finance other priority needs.

"The University could save a lot more money if we were to start relying on renewable sources for energy," Aiono added.

Presently, NUS's electricity bill is in the neighborhood of $78,000 tala a month.

"About a million tala is spent from our budget to cater to power and electricity. We believe if we go to renewable energy solutions, we could save more from that one million spent," reiterated the Vice Chancellor.

The University has already been taking measures to conserve energy. On Dark Fridays, all lights and air conditioning units are turned off for the day to save energy.

But the Vice Chancellor says that's not going to cut it.

"Part of the reason we want to go renewable is to fully align ourselves with the goal of government to make Samoa fully renewable energy reliant by 2025."

"The NUS campus consists of 46 acres, and about 15,000 square meters of roof surface spaces. So if we fill all the roofs at NUS with solar panels, we could save up to an estimated 50%," he continued.

The Vice Chancellor says the estimated cost of the project would be $3million tala to be spent in a two to three year span to fully cover NUS with solar panels.

"If we are to go fully renewable at NUS, in the next five years or so, the University would just be making a profit and no more costs," added the VC.

With the CDC endorsement, the next phase is to secure funding for the project to materialize.

Savali Newspaper and Election Coverage

The following is in response to allegations that the government owned Savali Newspaper is not giving a fair chance to other political parties during the General Election campaign in terms of news coverage. The allegations were made by the Faatuatua I le Atua Samoa ua Tasi, (FAST) Political Party and a government response was requested by Samoa Observer's reporter Soli Wilson.

For the reader's information, the same allegations have been duly addressed by Prime Minister and Savali Newspaper Minister Tuilaepa Dr. Sailele Malielegaoi in a video clip Palota Tele 2021 posted on the Savali Facebook Page, You Tube Channel and twitter.

And a response to the Samoa Observer dated 27th October 2020 is printed verbatim.

Talofa Soli,

I have been tasked by CEO Agafili Tomaimano Shem Leo to respond to your inquiries pertaining to allegations that the Savali Newspaper is not giving a fair chance to other political parties in terms of news coverage.

This is not a new issue and was again recently raised by Olo Fiti Vaai and Faumuina Wayne Fong via their weekly interview with the EFKS TV.

And to that extend, Prime Minister Tuilaepa Sailele Malielegaoi had addressed these allegations extensively.

I would suggest for you to view the video clipings (Titled; Palota Tele 2021) posted on the Government of Samoa and Savali News Facebook pages and You Tube Pages which would be more than sufficient to address your inquiry.

Savali and the Government Press Secretariat which are under the Press Communication Division, (PCD) in case you may have not noticed, is one of the Prime Minister's portfolios in his capacity as Minister of the Ministry of Prime Minister and Cabinet, (MPMC) that oversees PCD.

And PCD's vision is to ensure that information sharing to all our stakeholders is performed in a timely fashion and that the information is accurate.

This is in line with the Government as a whole approach by the Ministry and driven by the three MPMC's pillars for a well governed, well secured and well informed Samoa. The ultimate mission is for our people worldwide to make informed decisions based on facts as reiterated by the Prime Minister in his video respond to Olo and Faumuina's allegations.

On a separate note, PCD has also evolved with the changes with the time in terms of modern technology.

We have taken advantage of technology to successfully launch numerous platforms provided by the Savali and Press Secretariat today which includes on-line daily and regular posts via email, social media, You Tube and twitter.

Lastly for your information, Savali's presence at today's Press Conference by the FAST Political Party was by invitation. It was the first official invitation from the political party since its establishment. And I note the same invite was also circulated to all media outlets.
